The low end matches the $959,800 asking price of the same plan at 570 Latimer, and the high end is for an updated kitchen and baths. As your 2022 listing described the home, I'd expect $960,000 to $1,020,000. If the finishes have worn since then, the range drops to $915,000 to $960,000.

ADDRESS / APN	509 Latimer Circle, Campbell, CA 95008. APN 305-25-032. City of Campbell (MLS Area 15)
COMMUNITY	Fairmeadow townhomes, built 1973. Planned-development zoning. Community pool, clubhouse, barbecue area and greenbelt trails
HOME	2 bedrooms, 2 baths, 1,013 sq ft, single story, L-shaped, one fireplace, attic storage, covered patio. The smallest floor plan in Fairmeadow
POSITION	End unit beside the greenbelt. Attached one-car garage
HOA	$425 a month on the 2026 Fairmeadow sales ($305 on your unit in 2022). Covers exterior maintenance and painting, roof, roads, hazard insurance, management, pool and spa, common-area gas and upkeep
SCHOOLS	Campbell Union School District and Campbell Union High School District. Assigned schools per the MLS record: Campbell School of Innovation (K-8 charter) and Westmont High. Confirm attendance with the district
FLOOD ZONE	FEMA Zone X (minimal flood hazard). No flood insurance requirement
SALE HISTORY	$1,025,000 on 6/7/2022 (listed at $949,888, in contract in 6 days). Earlier: $443,000 on 5/21/2009; $230,000 on 7/15/1999

Where this home sits. Condition sets price in Fairmeadow more than anything else, and a one-story two-bedroom of 1,013 square feet trades differently from the two-story three- and four-bedrooms around it. Your floor plan has sold six times since 2018, and the same plan at 570 Latimer Circle, 0.11 miles away, went on the market October 1. I start with those sales, then adjust for what has changed: rates are higher and Campbell has twice as many townhomes for sale as a year ago. I haven't been inside yet, so the pricing section shows where your home lands by condition. Find your kitchen and baths on the ladder.

THE MARKET STORY

Campbell townhome buyers have more choice than a year ago. At the end of September there were 34 townhomes for sale, double last year's 17 and nearly five times September 2023's 7. That is 4.9 months of supply against 2.4 a year ago. Closed sales have held up (76 through September against 80 last year; September isn't complete), so the extra homes are simply taking longer to sell.

Our team sold 503 Latimer Cir, a few doors from you, in February. It was a remodeled four-bedroom of 1,432 square feet: listed January 29 at $1,198,000, in contract in 6 days, closed February 20 at $1,311,110, 109% of the list price and $916 a square foot. Yours is a different house, one story and 1,013 square feet, so the dollars don't carry over. The pattern does. Three of the four updated or remodeled Fairmeadow homes drew bids: 556 Latimer closed at 117% of list, 538 Latimer at 127% and 503 at 109%. The fourth, 548 W Latimer, sold at its list price, and the dated 574 Latimer at 99.9%.

Your floor plan has sold six times since 2018, from $780,000 in 2019 to $1,101,000 in October 2023, when a cash buyer paid 110% of list for the unit with one of the largest yards. 570 Latimer Circle, the same plan, came on the market October 1 at $959,800. It is described as well maintained and move-in ready, and over the next two weeks it will tell us more about your price than any statistic.

Not every Campbell townhome gets bid up. Of the 79 resale townhouse sales in the last twelve months, 51% closed over the original list price. Under $1.1 million, where your home sits, only 31% did and 58% closed under it, at a median 98.0% of the original list after 32 days. Above $1.1 million, 67% closed over list in 9 days.

The market also changed in July. Townhomes that closed April through June went over list 73% of the time, at a median 104.3% in 8 days. Since July, 44% went over and 56% went under, at a median 97.6%. The 10 two-bedroom sales since July split evenly, with a median of 99.4% and 25 days.

A new community, Monarch, is selling two-bedroom, 2.5-bath townhomes less than a quarter mile away. Its 1,435 square foot plan went into contract at $1,155,790 for a closing next February, and builder prices are coming down: one 1,536 square foot plan has dropped $187,650 since April. That puts a ceiling on what a 1973 townhome of 1,013 square feet can ask.

Rates are the headwind. The 30-year fixed is 7.57% (Mortgage News Daily, October 2), up from 6.38% a year ago. On a $959,000 purchase with 20% down, that is $5,401 a month in principal and interest, $612 more than a year ago, before the $425 of HOA dues.

Look at how long these have been sitting: three of the five nearby two-bedrooms have been cut, by $23,000 to $85,000, and all five have been on the market 31 to 162 days. The only other home of your plan for sale is 570 Latimer at $959,800. A buyer at this price has real alternatives, from remodeled two-bedrooms in the nearby complexes at $885,000 to $995,000 to a new two-bedroom at $1,155,790 that closes next February, so the first price matters.

MARKET PRICING BEHAVIOR AND THE DAYS-ON-MARKET CORRELATION

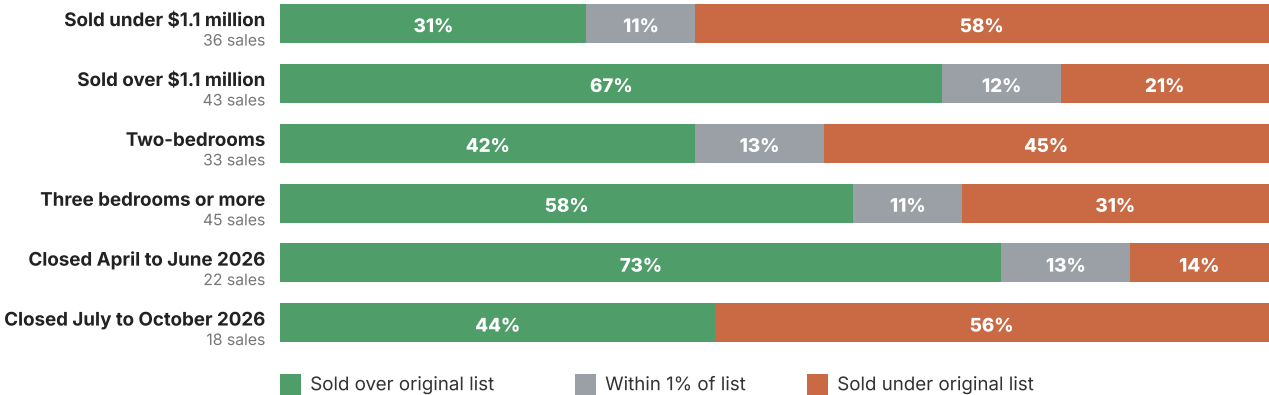

The question behind every list price: does Campbell reward pricing sharp, or pricing high and waiting? Here are the original list price, sale price and days on market for 79 resale townhouse sales in Campbell (MLS Area 15) over the last twelve months, with builder sales removed.

51% sold over the original ask, but only 31% under $1.1 million

The median Campbell townhome closed at 101.2% of its original list price in 13 days. Under $1.1 million, the median was 98.0% in 32 days

Share of the 79 sales that closed over, at, or under their original list price.

The same split by price tier, bedroom count and season. The bidding pattern is strongest above $1.1 million and in the spring.

How far over or under its original list price each of the 79 sales closed. The median is 101.2%.

Longer on market, bigger discount. Each dot is one sale: its price as a share of the original list, against its days on market. Correlation -0.61, a clear pattern, not a guarantee for any single home. The line shows the general direction.

APPROACH	# OF SALES	MEDIAN ORIG LIST	MEDIAN SOLD	MEDIAN VS. ORIG LIST	MEDIAN DOM
Priced to sell (sold over original ask)	40	$1,193,000	$1,280,000	105.0%	9 days
Priced at market (within 1%)	9	$1,150,000	$1,145,000	99.6%	17 days
Overpriced (sold under original ask)	30	$1,047,500	$983,750	93.7%	44 days

READING THE NUMBERS

Of the 79 resale townhomes that sold in Campbell in the last twelve months:

- 40 homes (51%) sold over their original ask, a median of 5% over, in a median of just 9 days.
- 9 homes (11%) sold within 1% of ask, in a median 17 days.
- 30 homes (38%) sold under their original ask, a median of 6% under, and took a median 44 days, about five times as long.
- 16 homes (20%) cut their price, by a median 7.6%, and then took a median 52 days to sell, closing at 99.1% of their last price.

The homes that started high didn't win on price. They sold for less than the original ask and sat about five times longer than the ones that were priced to sell.

Why does your price range behave differently? Bidding wars in Campbell are a bigger-home story. Three- and four-bedroom townhomes selling above $1.1 million went over list 67% of the time; under $1.1 million it was 31%. At your price, buyers compare more alternatives, they have more time, and they pay attention to days on market. The ones that worked this year started clearly below value: 1381 Millich Ln listed at $899,000 and sold for $976,000, and 1358 Charmwood Sq listed at $899,000 and sold for $1,000,000, both in the spring.

What this means for you. Price with the market, not above it. At the Mid-tier band below, $949,000 to $979,000, you need a 1% to 4% jump over list to reach the middle of the expected range. Half of the two-bedroom townhomes sold since July closed over their original list, so that jump is reachable but not automatic, and the band keeps the home below the $1 million line where many searches stop.

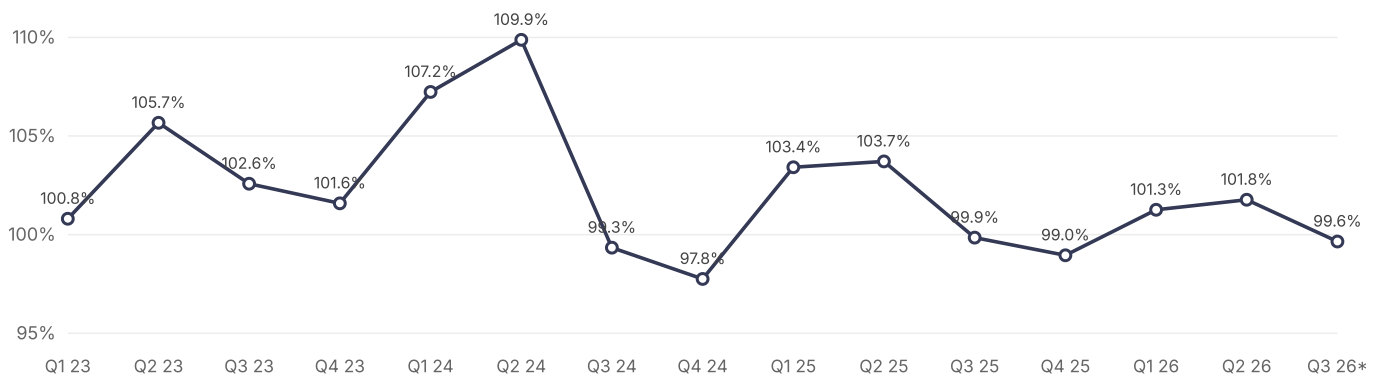

Sample: 79 resale townhouse sales in MLS Area 15 (Campbell), closed 10/4/2025 to 10/4/2026, each opened in the MLS. Builder sales (16) and one comparison-only record removed. Directional read, not a guarantee for any single home.

MARKET DATA AND TRENDS

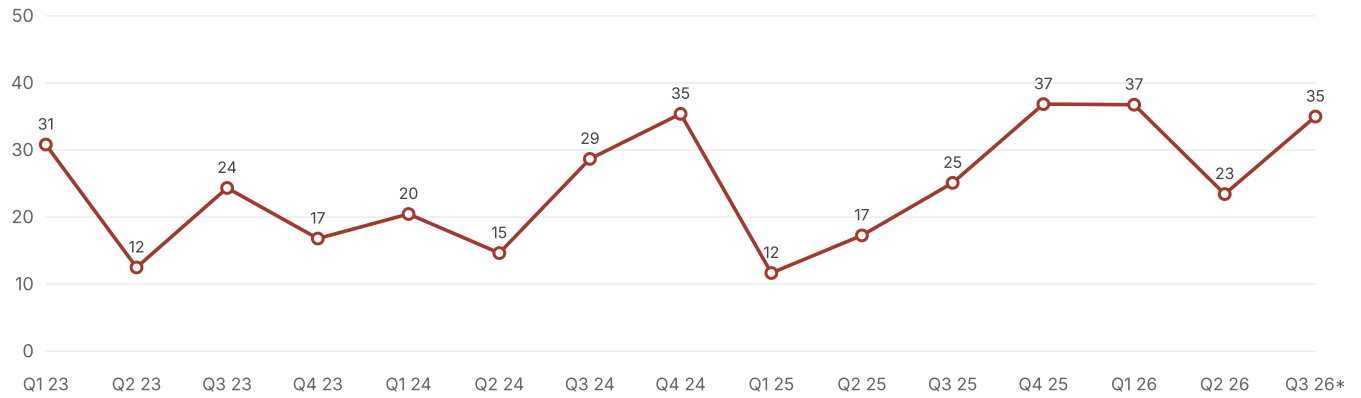

These charts group the MLS Stats for Campbell townhouses by quarter, weighted by the number of sales in each month. September 2026 is not complete and is left out of the sale-price lines, so the last quarter (marked *) covers July and August only. Campbell sells 8 townhouses a month, so single months move around.

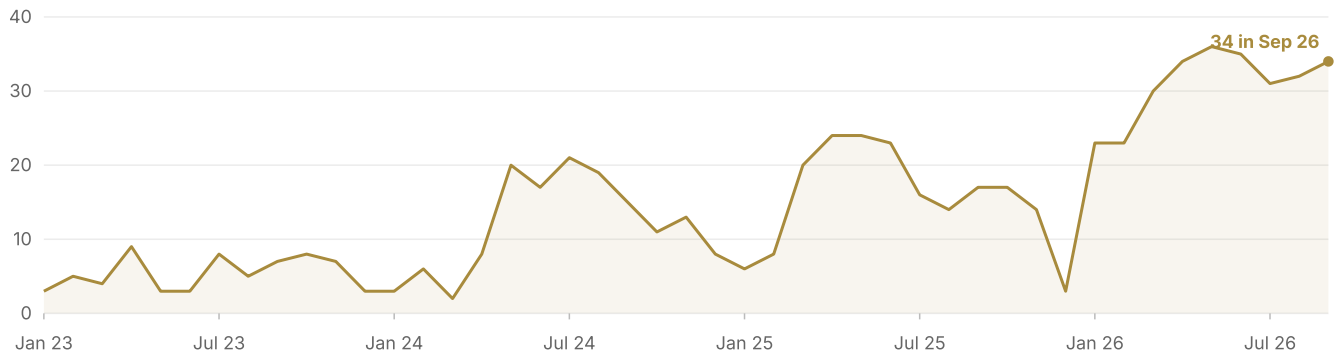

Average sale price by quarter, Campbell townhouses. Roughly $1.1 million to $1.3 million for three years, with the swings set by which homes closed, including the new-build sales in the second quarter of 2026. Source: MLSListings Matrix Stats, Area 15, townhouse.

Sale price as a share of original list price, by quarter. It has fallen from 109.9% in the second quarter of 2024 to about 99.6% now. Same source.

Average days to sell, by quarter. Same source.

Townhouses for sale at month end. 34 in September 2026, from 15 two years ago. Same source.

Prices have held, but the balance has moved toward buyers. Supply has doubled in a year while sales have not, which is why the homes that sell fast are the ones that start at a price buyers can see is below value.

Four sources, 30-year fixed, checked October 2 to 4, 2026, run 7.28% to 7.57%. A year ago the rate was 6.38%. For a buyer putting 20% down on $959,000, today's rate means about $5,401 a month in principal and interest, $612 more than at last year's rate. With the $425 HOA dues and property tax, the monthly cost is about $6,825. Freddie Mac's weekly rate rose a quarter point last week, and further increases are the main risk to the top of this range. We'll check them again the week we list.

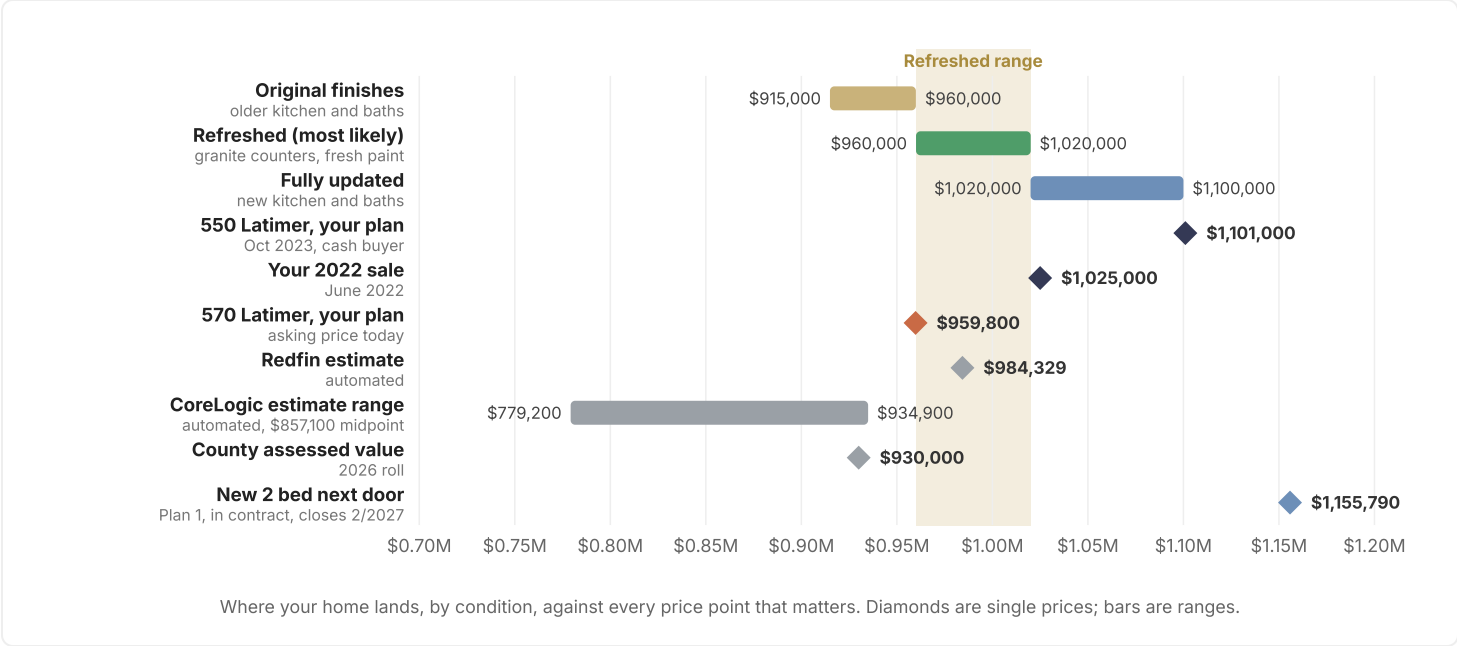

PRICING STRATEGY

EXPECTED SALES PRICE, REFRESHED CONDITION

$960,000 to $1,020,000

Midpoint $990,000, about $977 per square foot

That's what I expect your home to sell for if it looks the way your 2022 listing described it, not what I'd put on the sign. In Campbell those are two different numbers, and the gap between them is the strategy.

CONDITION	WHAT IT LOOKS LIKE	EXPECTED SALE	PER SQ FT	WHERE I'D LIST
Original finishes	Older kitchen and baths, worn flooring, tired paint	$915,000 to $960,000	$925	$909,000
Refreshed	Granite counters, fresh paint, decent flooring: what your 2022 listing described	$960,000 to $1,020,000	$977	$959,000
Fully updated	New kitchen and baths, new flooring, doors and lighting	$1,020,000 to $1,100,000	$1,046	$1,019,000

How the ranges were built. Condition drives price in Fairmeadow, and the kitchen and baths decide which rung you're on. Three prices anchor the middle one. Your own 2022 sale, $1,025,000, with granite counters and fresh paint. The 2023 sale of this plan, $1,101,000 in cash, less about 7% for a market with 4.9 months of supply instead of 1.3, which is $1,024,000. And the same plan on the market today at $959,800. The county's own 2026 assessed value ($930,000) and the two automated estimates ($857,100 and $984,329) bracket the low end, and none of them has seen your kitchen. The top rung stops at $1,100,000, about where this plan last sold ($1,101,000 in October 2023) and below the $1,155,790 a new 1,435 square foot townhome next door went under contract at. Each rung up is worth about $50,000 to $70,000.

Three ways to price into that expected sale, shown for the refreshed case. Move each band down about $50,000 for original finishes or up about $70,000 for a fully updated home.

AGGRESSIVE LIST STRATEGY

$919,000 to $939,000

Lists below the $959,800 asking price at 570 Latimer to start a bidding war. It needs a 5% to 8% jump to reach the middle of the expected range. 1381 Millich Ln and 1358 Charmwood Sq did that in the spring. Since July, buyers have been more selective: half of the two-bedroom townhomes sold under their original list.

Pros: Widest buyer pool, strongest chance of multiple offers, usually the fastest sale.

Cons: If bids don't come, the sale can land near the low list price, which reads publicly as underperforming.

MID-TIER PRICING STRATEGY

$949,000 to $979,000

Lists with 570 Latimer, under the $1 million line and under the middle of the expected range. Reaching the middle takes a 1% to 4% jump, and half of the two-bedroom townhomes sold since July closed over their original list. $959,000 sits at the bottom of this band.

Pros: Balances speed and upside, and matches where most of the nearby market is pricing.

Cons: Less dramatic than an aggressive list, so somewhat lower odds of a bidding-war ceiling.

HIGHER-END PRICING STRATEGY

$999,000 to $1,029,000

Lists at or above the middle of the expected range, so it depends on a buyer paying more than the comparable sales. 16 of the 79 Campbell townhomes cut their price; they took a median 52 days and closed at 99.1% of the last price.

Pros: Keeps upside if a premium buyer appears without a bidding war.

Cons: Longer time on market, a weaker hand in negotiation, and a likely price cut to reach the expected price anyway.

SPECIAL CONSIDERATIONS

The HOA. Dues were $305 a month on your unit in 2022 and are $425 on the 2026 sales next door. At today's rates the extra $120 a month costs a buyer about $21,000 of purchase price, and every $100 of monthly dues is worth about $18,000. Buyers will ask for the budget, the reserve study and any planned assessments, so have them ready. The dues are also a selling point: they cover the roof, exterior paint, road maintenance, hazard insurance, a pool and a clubhouse.

The end-unit position. Your 2022 listing called out the end unit beside the greenbelt, and Fairmeadow buyers have paid for position. 538 Latimer, listed as the best location in the complex with an extra-large backyard, closed at 127% of its list price. 550 Latimer, with one of the largest yards, closed at 110%. Your yard, the greenbelt and the light belong in the first photos and the first line of the listing.

570 Latimer and timing. The same plan listed October 1 at $959,800 and is being shown now. If it sells quickly at or above its price, that supports the upper half of the Mid-tier band. If it sits, buyers are telling us this plan needs to start lower. Either way, we'll know in about two weeks, and a late-October listing still has about four weeks before Thanksgiving. If you don't need to sell this fall, a January launch is the alternative: the first quarter of 2026 went over list 53% of the time, although listings also build in the spring.

Preparing the home. A full remodel costs more than it adds. Each step up the ladder is worth about $50,000 to $70,000, and a kitchen and two baths cost more than that and take months. The better return is a cosmetic refresh: paint, flooring where it's worn, lighting, a deep clean and staging. Your own 2022 sale shows what that looks like: it listed with fresh paint and granite counters and closed 7.9% over list in six days.

New homes down the street. A buyer comparing your townhome at $959,000 with a new two-bedroom, 2.5-bath at $1,155,790 is saving almost $200,000 and getting a home they can move into now, in an established community with a pool, a garage and the greenbelt next door. The new home closes next February and carries a $351 to $400 HOA. That is your case to buyers.

The 1973 build. Buyers and their inspectors will look at the electrical panel, plumbing, windows and any textured ceilings. A pre-listing inspection and pest report give us the facts before the first showing, and they take the surprise out of negotiation.

NEXT STEPS

Let's walk through the home together so I can place it on the ladder, then pick a list date and go over prep and timing. And if you know anyone thinking about buying or selling, I'd be grateful for the introduction.
